注釋 Notes

的 as a Possessive Particle

1. If the relationship between the possessor and the possessed is close and the possessor is a pronoun, we usually omit 的. For example, we can say 我爸爸 instead of 我的爸爸. There are more examples, such as 我家, 他朋友. Therefore you can not say 老師媽媽.

   However, when the possessed is an object or an animal, we don't omit 的 even if the relationship between the possessor and the possessed is close. For example, we say 我的手機(shǒujī, cell phone) and 我的狗(gǒu, dog). We can not say 我手機 or 我狗.

2. If the nouns in a possessive relationship refer to an individual and his/her belonging groups (such as school, company, etc), the first noun is usually in plural and we omit 的 as well. Therefore, for my school, it is 我們學校; my company, it is 我們公司(gōngsī, company).
